Regulation of foreign investment is one of the most topical and controversial subjects in EU law and international investment law. This book examines the legal foundations upon which EU investment policy is based, addressing the legal, practical, and political concerns created by the establishment of a common investment policy.

The book deals with one of the key areas of EU law. It explains and analysis in great detail the EC Treaty provisions on free movement of capital. A sound understanding of those provisions will assist, firstly, foreign investors willing to set up or to acquire an undertaking in one of the EU Member States in identifying and fending off protectionist measures of their potential host State by taking recourse to EU law. Such protectionist measures can, for example, take the form of discriminatory tax regimes or restrictive market access policies. This study, secondly, will also be useful for EU investors which face discriminatory or restrictive treatment by a Member State due to their investments outside the EU. The study will provide legal innovation and how financial resiliency was achieved in Naples. To highlight both the achievements of the public banks of Naples and their lessons for financial resiliency, the book focuses on financial crises and how they were overcome in Naples in contrast to other European financial systems. The first section focuses on the development of the public banks unique to Naples. The second section compares those with other banking systems and how they responded to the same shock in 1622, caused by the full mobilization of European belligerents to finance their efforts in the Thirty Years War. The next section compares lessons learned in the rest of Europe over the next century and a half. The final

Section comes back to original start of the narrative arc to suggest ways that today 's policymakers and thinkers could use the historical experience of the public banks of Naples to deal better with the ongoing problems stemming from the financial crisis of 2007-08.
